Healthy Food News,
Training and Analysis

AHFES is looking for food SMEs to complete a questionnaire.

The objective being to analyse the current positions with respect to Sustainability and the Circular Economy.

AHFES will use the responses to make a series of recommendations. These will then be fed back to companies working in this key area.

Mapping the innovation ecosystem for healthy food & lifestyles.

The AHFES project has undertaken a deep analysis of the regional ecosystems dedicated to Healthy Food and Lifestyles.

Exploring the actors within the European Atlantic Area we have highlighted the companies who work in Healthy Food across the 4 helixes of Industry, Government, Academia, and Citizens.

The work included listing the companies who work on making healthier products and those who are working to develop more sustainable products.

The list also includes those working to promote a healthier lifestyle, including researching on healthy food and diets.
